Grammar 101:
Adjectives, Adverbs, Articles, Prepositions, oh my!

For Planners
Adjectives modify nouns:

- “I ate a meal.” Meal is a noun. We don’t know what kind of meal; all we know is that someone ate a meal.
- “I ate an enormous lunch.” Lunch is the noun, and enormous is an adjective that modifies it. It tells us WHAT KIND OF meal the person ate.
Adjectives

- Adjectives usually answer one of a few different questions:
  - What kind?
  - Which?
  - How many?
- Examples:
  - “The tall girl is riding a new bike”
  - “Fifteen students passed the midterm exam; twelve students passed the final exam”
Most of the time, adjectives come before nouns. However, when they come after the nouns they modify, they usually follow a verb like: be, feel, taste, smell, sound, look, appear, seem

Examples:
- “The dog is black” [black = adjective, is = form of verb ‘to be’]
- “Brian seems sad” [sad = adjective, seem = verb]
- “The speaker sounds hoarse” [hoarse = adjective, sound = verb]
Adverbs

- Adverbs modify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs (sometimes they are easily recognizable because many of them are formed by adding –ly to an adjective)
- Adverbs answer the question HOW
- Examples:
  - “She sang beautifully”
  - “The cellist played carelessly”
  - “That woman is extremely nice”
  - “It was a terribly hot afternoon”
Adverbs: Common errors

- Bad vs. Badly:
  - “I feel bad” = describing the way you feel
  - “I feel badly” = you are unable to feel, hands are numb (similar to saying “I play football badly”)
  - “The dog smells badly” = The dog cannot smell very well
  - “The dog smells bad” = The dog needs a bath
Adverbs: Common errors

- Good vs. Well: Good is an adjective, so you do NOT ‘live good’ you ‘live well’
  - “My mother looks good” = she appears healthy
  - “I feel really good today” = I do not touch things successfully, I am happy or healthy
Adverbs: Common errors

Sure vs. Surely: Sure is an adjective, surely is an adverb.

“He is sure about his answer” = sure describes HE

“The Senator spoke out surely” = surely describes HOW S. spoke

Near vs. Nearly: Near can be a verb, adverb, adjective or preposition, nearly is used as an adverb to mean “in a close manner,” or “almost but not quite”

“I’ll be seeing you in the near future”

“The cat crept near”

“Don’t worry, we’re nearly there”
Articles MODIFY nouns (just like adjectives)

English has two articles:
- THE = definite article: used to refer to specific or particular nouns
- A/AN = indefinite article: used to modify non-specific or non-particular nouns
Definite and Indefinite Articles

- The is used to refer to a specific or particular member of a group.
  - “Let’s read the book” = Let’s read a specific book
  - “I just saw the most popular movie of the year” = There are many movies, but only one particular movie is the most popular

- A/an is used to refer to a non-specific or non-particular member of the group.
  - “Let’s read a book” = Let’s read any book
  - “I would like to go see a movie” = Not talking about a specific movie, talking about any movie, don’t have have a specific one in mind

- However, there are ALWAYS EXCEPTIONS!
Definite Articles: Exercise

- ___ dog that bit me ran away
- I was happy to see ___ policeman who saved my cat!
- I saw ___ elephant at the zoo
- He spilled ___ milk all over the floor
- I love to sail over ___ water
Indefinite Articles: Usage Rules

- Choice of indefinite article is based on the phonetic (sound) quality of the first letter in the word following it, not the orthographic (written) representation of the letter.

- If the first letter makes a vowel-type sound, you use “an”; if the first letter would make a consonant-type sound, you use “a.”

- However, there are ALWAYS EXCEPTIONS!
Indefinite Articles: Examples

“A” goes before words that begin with consonants:
- A cat
- A dog
- A purple onion
- A buffalo
- A big apple

“An” goes before words that begin with vowels:
- An apricot
- An egg
- An orbit
- An uprising
- An office
Indefinite Articles: Exceptions

- Use “an” before any unsounded “h.” Because the “h” hasn’t any phonetic representation and has no audible sound, the sound that follows the article is a vowel; thus, “an” is used.
  - An honorable peace
  - An honest error
  - An hour
When “u” makes the same sound as the “y” in “you,” or “o” makes the same sound as “w” in “won,” then a is used. The initial word sound “y” (“unicorn”) is actually a phonetic glide that has consonantal properties; thus, it is treated as a consonant—a is used.

- A union
- A united front
- A used napkin
- A U.S. ship
- A one-legged man
- A useful tool
Indefinite Articles: Exercise

- ____ broken egg
- ____ unusual problem
- ____ European country
- I am ____ teacher
- Brian is ____ Irishman
- Seiko is ____ practicing Buddhist
Prepositions: Definition

- Prepositions are used for Time, Place, and Introducing Objects
  - I will see you on Monday

  - I’m looking for my keys
One point in time:

- On is used with days:
  - I will see you on Friday for our PWE lunch session
  - The week begins on Sunday

- At is used with noon, night, midnight, and with the time of day:
  - My plane leaves at noon
